

Navy Expeditionary Logistics Support Group

Navy Expeditionary Logistics Support Group (NAVELSG) is responsible for providing expeditionary logistic capabilities for the Navy, primarily within the maritime domain of the littorals, and conducts surface and air cargo handling missions, cargo terminal and warehouse operations, fuels distribution, postal services, customs inspections, ordnance reporting and handling, and expeditionary communications.

NAVELSG is a vital enabler of Marine Prepositioning Forces (MPF) and Joint Logistics Over the Shore (JLOTS) operations and maritime forces ashore providing expeditionary cargo handling services for surface, air, and terminal operations, tactical fueling, and ordnance handling/reporting in support of worldwide naval, joint, interagency, and combined forces/organizations across the full range of military operations.

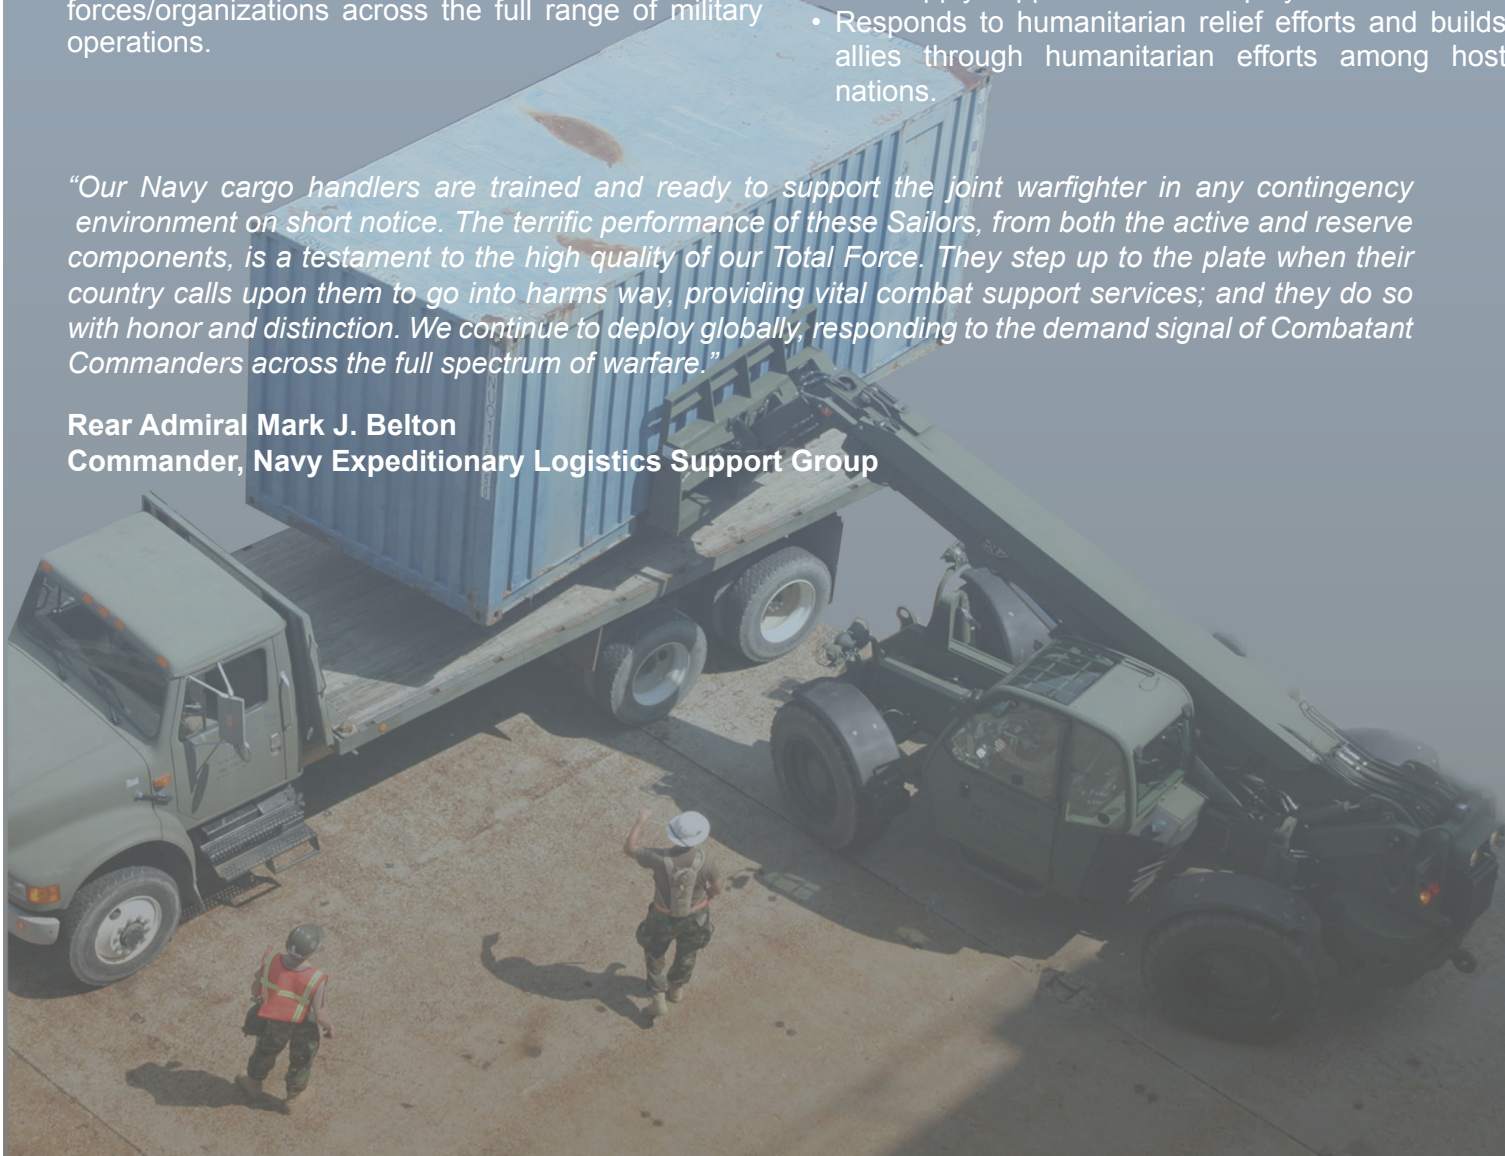

NAVELSG is an "Operational Reserve" command organized and staffed to provide a wide range of supply and transportation support critical for peacetime support, crisis response, humanitarian and combat service support missions.

The Navy Expeditionary Logistics Support Group:

- Delivers logistics capabilities with active and mobilization-ready Navy Reserve Force Sailors and equipment to theater commanders in support of the military strategy.
- Organizes, trains, equips and deploys active and reserve units for port and air cargo handling missions, ordnance handling and reporting services, and supply support to forces deployed ashore.
- Responds to humanitarian relief efforts and builds allies through humanitarian efforts among host nations.

"Our Navy cargo handlers are trained and ready to support the joint warfighter in any contingency environment on short notice. The terrific performance of these Sailors, from both the active and reserve components, is a testament to the high quality of our Total Force. They step up to the plate when their country calls upon them to go into harms way, providing vital combat support services; and they do so with honor and distinction. We continue to deploy globally, responding to the demand signal of Combatant Commanders across the full spectrum of warfare."

NAVELSG at a Glance

The Navy Expeditionary Logistics Support Group (NAVELSG) is an Active (11 percent) and Reserve (89 percent) Component command with more than 3,300 personnel assigned to five regional regiments and 11 battalions located throughout the United States and at NAVELSG headquarters in Williamsburg, Va.

NAVELSG consists of:

- A full-time active duty, civilian, and selected reserve headquarters staff
- 1 Training and Evaluation Unit (TEU)
- 5 Navy Expeditionary Logistics Regiments (NELR)
- 11 Navy Cargo Handling Battalions (NCHBs)

Navy Expeditionary Logistics Regiments (NELR)

A deployable command and control element comprised of 26 selective reserve personnel. The NELRs serve as the forward deployed headquarters for all deployed NAVELSG forces.

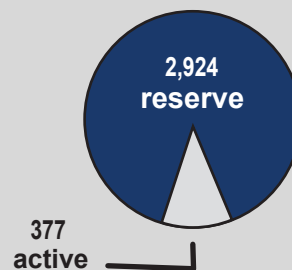

Navy Cargo Handling Battalions (NCHB)

There is one active and 10 reserve-commissioned NCHBs that load and unload all classes of cargo, except bulk petroleum, from surface ships and military controlled aircraft. NCHBs also perform aircraft and ground support refueling and bulk fuels storage and operate expeditionary air cargo terminals. NCHBs safely and efficiently handle, report and stow palletized and containerized ordnance and ammunition for Navy and Marine Corps use.

NAVELSG Training and Evaluation Unit (TEU)

The NAVELSG TEU evaluates unit readiness through the Fleet Readiness Training Plan (FRTTP). The TEU also provides core cargo handling and predeployment training to all assigned units through formal courses and mobile training teams. It serves as a centralized point of contact for the training needs of NAVELSG units. The TEU works with the NAVELSG N7 Director for Training.
